

Agenda

DAY 1 Tuesday 07, March 2023

Time (GMT-4)	Webinar	Speakers
0900-0905	Opening remarks by CariSec Global	Edward Millington – Managing Director, CSG
0905-0930	Featured guests' opening remarks	 Michelle Smith-Mayers - Executive Director, BCSI Rodney Taylor - Secretary General, CTU Lieut. Mario Brooks - USVI Assistant Commissioner of Police Steven Baer - CTO, Trustwave

0935-1050	Cyber Risk for Business Leaders The session exposes senior government officials, business leaders, senior executives, etc. to the following topics of discussion by global seasoned global security experts, demonstrating the need to take ownership of the security-culture and its continuing development throughout institutions, organisations, industries, etc. Topics: > Global Cyber threats: Is the business at risk? > Integrating Cyber and IT Risks into the overall Risk Management Program > Guidance: The importance of strategic Cybersecurity Programs > Board Level point of view on Cybersecurity Risk: KPIs	 Edward Millington - Managing Director, CariSec Global Stéphane Nappo - Vice President, Cybersecurity Director & Global Chief Information Security Officer, Group SEB Scott Foote, Managing Director, Phenomenati Steven Baer - CTO, Trustwave
1050-1100	BREAK

Strategic Response to Cyber Attacks

The cybercrime criminal enterprised is a very well-committed and oiled process. This session will share with senior officials and business executives the sophisticated strategies used by cybergangs and the business security strategies that need to be developed for Incident Management - all based on International Standards (NIST, ISO), Frameworks (NIST, FIRST), and Certifications (CREST).

Jason Bergerson - Director, SpiderLabs Security -Trustwave

1100-1200

Topics:

- Cyber Gangs and their sophistication in compromising and breaching organizations
- > Incident Response Standardization Strategies

	Digital Forensics of Cybercrime
	An organisation at some point in its digital history will either be compromised and most likely breached!
1205-1235	Understanding cybercrime and its effects on the organisation is key in monitoring and defending against such cyber-attacks but when there do occur, digital artefacts (remnants of the crime: cyber) is very important in criminal investigations and prosecution - dissuading future attacks.	Neil Hinds
	Topics:
	 Effects of Cybercrime on businesses The importance of Digital Artefacts for cybercriminal investigations

DAY 2 Wednesday 08, March 2023

0900-0930	Regional Cyber Climate Panel discussion by leading bodies on how their members are managing cybersecurity and how those strategies are developing and their role in the process.	 Steven Williams – Data Privacy Consultant, The Barbados Coalition of Service Industries (BCSI) Phillip Lewis – Councilor, The Barbados Chamber of Commerce and Industry (BCCI)
0935-1050	The Economics of Cybercrime Cyber-risk to businesses can be very costly. Understanding this cost is key in developing and maturing strategies in the cybersecurity risk-management of cyberrisk.	 Steven Baer – CTO, Trustwave Paul Barnes, Northpoint
1050-1100	BREAK

Building	Effective Cy	bersecurity	Programs
-----------------	--------------	-------------	-----------------

Protecting organisations against cyber-attacks and reducing their effects, if successful, is only possible through an effective and efficient Information Security Governance Program. This session discussed the importance of such a strategic program, its risk-based applications, and maturing operations, including its awareness and security culture development.

1100-1200

Topics:

- > The Information Security Governance Program
- > Integrated Cybersecurity & IT Risk Management Program and Compliance
- Cybersecurity Capability Maturity Model
- > Creating the Security Culture: Training Strategies

- Edward Millington Managing Director, CariSec Global
- David Primor Founder & CEO, Cynom
- Paul Eversley CEO, KPN Consulting
- Phillip Lewis Councilor, The Barbados Chamber of Commerce and Industry (BCCI)
- Albert Prelvukaj Senior Business
 Development Manager North America
 PECB

	Data Risk Management
1205-1305	Businesses today are data-driven and the risk to such data can mean all types of business risks. Therefore, data risk management is key and this session discusses this topic in a strategic manner, helping to reduce data losses, increase business recovery time (return to operations after a cyber incident) and the protection of data from a breach. Topics: What is Data resilience? Data Resilience strategy Protecting Critical Data	 Kevin Bailey – VP Strategy, CyBrilliance Guy Bavly – CEO, Actifile Elisha Riedlinger – COO, NeuShield
1310-1320	Closing Remarks	 Edward Millington – Managing Director, CariSec Global Michelle Smith-Mayers - Executive Director, Barbados Coalition of Service Industries (BCSI)